From the streets, to IA, to the Courtroom, learn where officers fall short on their understanding of the law, documenting their actions and minimizing the chance of being successfully sued. Using real life examples, you'll apply constitutional law and best practice while addressing the claims that may be made against you. Discover the Science of Police and Human Performance under Stress. Using real incidents, you'll learn the mind and body's limitations and normal response when using force. This course is constantly evolving and delivers video recorded current incidents, case studies, and small group discussion:

- Constitutional and Relevant Laws:
  - Reality v. Myths
  - Graham v. Connor
